Introduction

In this document I'm going to reveal 5 very profitable ways to exploit blogging using my proprietary Super Lazy Organic Blogging System (or SLOBS for short).

Using SLOBS you 'll be able to build quality content blogs with the minimum of effort. Of course you don't have to use SLOBS to achieve the same result, but the other options are either very time consuming, or post old articles that every man and his dog have had on their blogs for years.

My system allows you to post only the latest, and therefore the freshest articles only just submitted to certain article directories. In addition to this, SLOBS will cue articles for posting to your blogs based on keywords you provide. Your job is to act like an editor of a newspaper or magazine, and decide if the article is good enough to post to your blogs, and to make sure it goes to the right blog. Once setup, the system is literally a handful of mouse clicks, and the job is done for that blog. You can feed an empire of blogs in less than ten minutes a day... and remember, these are high quality articles, not some crappy PLR or a handful of RSS links that add no value to your blogs. Given time, and worked properly, your blogs could end up as authority blogs, and ranking very well indeed in the search engines.

Because SLOBS is a very simple system, there is nothing to go wrong. If you wanted to, you could easily modify the system and add your own twists. I remember some years ago when Blogspot.com changed the way people can post to their free blogging platform, all the software that I was testing for other developers at the time stopped working, and had to be rewritten, or in some cases, the software was allowed to die. SLOBS just carried on working without any interruption whatsoever.

Blogspot are constantly changing their codes to defeat automated software, so you have to wait for the developer to update their software. SLOBS has NEVER needed to be rewritten to continue its work.

SLOBS is also Blogspot.com approved. In the rare event that any of my Blogspot.com blogs are ever flagged as possible spam blogs by their robots, a human reviewer always unlocks them. SLOBS gives Blogspot.com exactly what they want to see on their platform, high quality, and relevant articles. If you know anything about Blogspot.com, you'll know how fond they are of deleting blogs they deem not good enough to be on their systems.

I promised you five profitable reasons to become a SLOB, and here they are.

1: Build a Blog Flipping Business With Ease.

Building focussed quality content blogs that get free search engine traffic will always demand a good price if you decide to sell them. Using SLOBS will allow you to build these content blogs with ease, and just a few minutes a day, you can be on your way to building a nice portfolio ripe for flipping at a future date. But don't forget, you can make profits along the way too. This is exactly what one SLOBS user did to earn over $60,000 in his first year. His wife worked less than an hour a day on the system. When he was eventually persuaded to sell his blogs, he negotiated a residual fee for maintaining blog networks' content.

If you manage to flip, let's say, 100 blogs in your first year, and you charged just $15 per month per blog, you'll earn $1500 a month in residual fees for about 30 minutes work a day. At the same time, you're still maintaining and growing your own empire, rinse, repeat, profit. Now you can use all those old domains you have sitting around and doing nothing.

2: Keep Slow Blogs Alive With Fresh Content.

The main problem with maintaining quality blogs is that you have to constantly keep writing new material, and this is fine if you enjoy writing, and you're good at it. And even if you were good at writing, you face the daily battle of finding something fresh to write about.

The problem is, most people are not that good at writing, and finding fresh ideas means a lot of reading and thinking. So you might only be able to post once or twice a week at best. If you employ SLOBS as your content delivery system, you'll be able to keep your blog fresh, and search engines actively spidering. Finding any new material that your write is now going to be a lot faster from the search engines.

Over time, your blogs will slowly grow into behemoths, and could be dominating the Search Engines with hardly any effort.

3: Build a Quality Blog Network to Gain Backs With Ease.

One of the biggest problems bloggers and website owners face is getting easy backlinks to their properties. Backlinking is a vital task for any new or intermediate website or blog. It's the lifeblood of most online businesses.

But, how do you easily obtain these backlinks?

The answer is to maintain a number of blogs on a number of disparate platforms and servers. And surprisingly enough, not only are these available, but they can be used for free. You'll want to maintain this network of blogs, and SLOBS 2 is the perfect tool for you. This network will be provided with high quality material and therefore your backlinks will build authority, and earn respect from the search engines. In addition to this, you can monetise these blogs as you would your core blogs.

People will also pay you handsomely to have a link from your Network, and this can be very easily added to your system, and in fact, used to enhance it. Google just loves it when a website links to another site with closely related subject matters.

4: Create Empires in Niches you Have Little Knowledge or Interest in.

To really make good money online, you need to have your fingers in several pies, most commonly called "multiple streams of income". The problem is the time and costs involved. To make a dent in any niche, you'll need a steady stream of relevant content. This might be fine if you're focussing on just one niche that you have passion for, but what about when you find a very profitable niche that you have no knowledge in, and it doesn't interest you enough to learn about it? You might only want to test the waters to begin with before you invest money in outsourcing article writing.

SLOBS 2 will allow you to maintain quality niche blogs, and if you decide to outsource or write articles for that niche, they'll get spidered more quickly. Because you're building authority by posting lots of other FRESH articles in the same niche, your own articles will receive a much better ranking in the search engines than if they were posted without building authority.

5: Build Blog Empires With no Costs at all.

It's possible to build a blog empire, using free platforms like Blogspot and Wordpress. You can then populate your blogs with high quality content over time. Adding just one extra blog a day to your system, and over the course of a couple of months you'll build a profitable empire for you to exploit.

You'll be able to sell affiliate products , CPA offers (This is HOT), Adsense, or even help it to build your mailing lists for you, all on virtual autopilot.

All of this is possible, while flying under the RADAR of your competitors who prefer to work hard rather than working smart. One SLOBS user was outranking a very large player in his chosen niche, they were scratching their heads trying to figure out how he was achieving his results, but they couldn't. In the end, the Media company brought him out so they could own those listings. He still profits today because he's been retained to maintain the content. Building quality content blogs doesn't have to be hard, and it doesn't have to take a lot of time. Just one or two minutes a few days a week is all that's required to maintain each blog. A blog empire, probably less that 30 minutes a day. You can do it while you're half watching Jerry Springer or Judge Judy and waiting for your coffee to cool down enough to drink.
